

Project 5 design:

We were thinking of creating a battleship game that would implement both GUI and logic for the two-player game. We were thinking of doing text-based input. This would take it a step further than any of the projects that we have done before and would be a good show of all that we have learned this year in programming 2.

